Cancellations, closures as COVID-19 escalates

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

The rapid growth of the COVID-19 virus across the country has cancelled sporting events nation wide, including the Minor Hockey Provincials, World Curling championships and Major League Baseball spring training camps, with schools, secondary education and daycares the latest victims on the list.

Grocery stores saw lengthy lineups as people swarmed in to stock up for potential quarantines or self-isolation, and in fears that stocks would run out, with products such as cleaning solutions, hand sanitizer and bathroom tissue rapidly heading for the endangered list.

Locally, events from the Pond Hockey tournament to the Elk Point Minor Hockey banquet have been cancelled, along with the remainder of the Pickleball season.

At the local government level, the Town of Elk Point called a special council meeting to be held by conference call yesterday after press time. Please check out the Lakeland TODAY website for updates.

ELK POINT BANTAM AVALANCHE and their families and coaching staff made an all-out effort on Tuesday, March 10 to raise funds for their upcoming trip to Edmonton for Provincials, selling out all their barbecued burgers in short order, before their hopes of a provincial championship were dashed on March 13 when hockey at all levels was cancelled by the spread of the COVID-19 virus.

Grants shuffled in anticipation of lift station upgrade

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

The recent provincial approval of the sewer lift station upgrade and the current federal review of the project means that the Town of Elk Point must commit to $266,033 for the project, which would require reshuffling of grants, CAO Ken Gwozdz told council at last week's meeting.

Motions from 2018 and 2019 regarding use of Municipal Sustainability Initiative (MSI) funding from those years were rescinded, and after reviewing a new draft of the 2020 capital budget and the five-year capital plan, council replaced those motions with a new trio.

The lift station upgrade project received an allocation of $266,033 from the 2019 MSI capital funding and the purchase of a new backhoe $122,060 from 2018, 2019 and 2020 MSI capital, while $202,085 from the 2018 and 2019 Federal Gas Tax will go toward Railway Ave. rehabilitation. Gwozdz noted that all three are eligible to be funded with the specified grants. Alberta Transportation has been advised that the funding is in place for the lift station project.

No upgrade

There will be no upgrade to Highway 41 at this time, Alberta Transportation said in reply to a letter from the Town of Elk Point following their Jan. 13 meeting. While Transportation "is aware that this section of Highway 41 is rough", it is "not considered a safety concern at this time" when the government is operating under fiscal restraint.

The department is "closely monitoring" the highway's condition and "will ensure any safety-related concerns are addressed as soon as possible," budget permitting, the letter states.

County supports Rapid Attack replacement

Town council gave their support at their Jan. 13 meeting to the use of the Rescue Van Reserves to purchase a new Rapid Attack unit, provided that the County of St. Paul made a written commitment to replace the funds by the time the Rescue Van requires replacement, expected to occur in 2031. County council has now given full support to replacing the county-owned Rapid Attack with the new unit, and is committed to replacing the $280,000 to $300,000 it is estimated to cost, prior to the time a new rescue van is needed.

Extreme Weather

A wording change was approved in the town's Extreme Weather Mobilization Policy, now requiring employees to consult with the Superintendent of Public Works or his designate in cases of poor air quality or smoky conditions.

Paid or not paid

Whether council and appointed members should or should not be paid for attending various community events and functions was discussed at some length after some listed the Family Day event on their February time sheets and some did not. No decision was reached and the matter was deferred to the April 14 meeting.

Detachment grand opening

Council received an invitation to the grand opening of the new RCMP Detachment on June 4. The detachment has been in operation for the past year, but the grand opening was delayed multiple times due to building issues that had to be completed.

Direct deposit

Town administration is looking into the possibility of a direct deposit system through Servus Credit Union for all services, from taxes to water bills and licenses, and online payments that would send the town a daily report to be uploaded into the town's financial software.

Municipalities and schools take aggressive action to deal with COVID-19

JANICE HUSER
Review Contributor

It was a week of unprecedented decisions being made by local municipalities, school divisions, and the provincial government as aggressive steps are being taken to slow the spread of COVID-19.

Town of St. Paul recreation facilities were closed, following an announcement on March 13. Then, the St. Paul Municipal library was officially closed on March 14.

While decisions were being made, it was also confirmed that both the Town of St. Paul CAO and the County of St. Paul CAO were in self-quarantine following recent trips out of the country.

County of St. Paul CAO Sheila Kitz confirmed to the St. Paul Journal on Friday afternoon that she is in fact waiting for COVID-19 testing. Kitz returned from Jamaica on March 1, and is now exhibiting some cold symptoms. She says she wants to make sure the symptoms are nothing more than a cold.

"I called 811 on Wednesday and due to my situation of recently undergoing cancer treatment, the fact that I am asthmatic and am scheduled for a small surgery later this month, they felt that I should be tested," said Kitz, via email with the Journal. "So, I am currently working from home, attending a lot of meetings via phone, waiting to be tested. I am trying to ensure that I am not adding to the COVID-19 problem."

Town of St. Paul CAO Kim Heyman decided to return early from a holiday, and is among the many Albertans who have been told by the provincial government to self-quarantine due to travelling outside the country.

Heyman confirmed with the Journal Monday morning that she is not showing any signs of COVID-19.

A meeting between local municipalities and emergency management was scheduled for Friday. Later in the day, the municipalities (Town of St. Paul, County of St. Paul, Town of Elk Point and Summer Village of Horseshoe Bay) released a joint press release regarding measures being taken regarding COVID-19.

"At this time, there is a low risk to the residents of the St. Paul region. There have been no presumptive cases of the Coronavirus," reads the media release, dated March 13.

At the time, the municipalities determined that most services would operate as normal. Those services include road maintenance, water, wastewater, and waste management. Public offices were also expected to remain open.

Heyman confirmed Monday morning that a meeting was scheduled to take place in the evening with council, to discuss matters further.

The Town of Elk Point was also planning to meet at 3 p.m. on Monday to discuss COVID-19 in relation to its facilities. Due to the Journal's press deadline, updates from the meetings weren't available.

The "St. Paul Aquatic Centre, the Clancy Arena, and all other town recreation facilities are closed immediately for 30 days," according to Friday's media release. "At that time, the Town of St. Paul will reassess the situation and move forward in the best interest of the health of our citizens."

Classes cancelled

On Sunday, the Government of Alberta announced it would be cancelling classes for all K-12 and post-secondary students.

"Effective immediately, student attendance at schools is prohibited," reads the Sunday media release.

"School authorities are expected to continue their regular day-to-day operations and ensure the safety of school facilities. Maintenance, capital projects, cleaning of facilities and administrative work will continue," reads the provincial release.

"We appreciate everyone's patience and cooperation during this difficult time," said St. Paul Education board chair Heather Starosielski, Monday morning, speaking with the Journal. "We recognize the significant impact this decision has on families, students, staff, as well as our larger community."

She added that parents would be able to contact schools to gather their children's belongings over the next few days.

"Further information regarding the continuity of learning will be shared as that process is confirmed in the days ahead. We are especially dedicated and concerned for all students that are writing diplomas," said Starosielski.

"Every K-12 student will receive a final mark and students will progress to their next grade level next year. Provincial assessments, such as provincial achievement tests, will be cancelled. At this time, diploma exams essential for post-secondary acceptance will continue. Every student who is eligible to graduate from Grade 12 this year will graduate," reads the provincial media release.

Teachers and school staff were still expected to work, either from home or their workplace, and ensure expectations are met. Specifics on how this would look were still being decided upon, and "it may vary depending on the school jurisdiction," according to the province.

Along with classes being cancelled, licensed childcare, out-of-school programs and preschool programs across the province have also been closed. Approved day home were exempt due to having fewer children attending.

The provincial government also announced $500 million would be committed to the COVID-19 response, giving Alberta public health officials the resources they need to respond to the pandemic and keep Albertans safe, reads a media release sent out on Sunday.

A provincial limitation on public gatherings over 250 people was put in place on March 12, which at the time excluded places of worship. But on March 15, when the Government of Alberta gave its daily update, places of worship was added to the types of events that should be cancelled if they expect more than 250 attendees.

"This is truly an unprecedented public health emergency for Alberta, and our government is committed to bolstering the efforts of our front-line health professionals with the resources they need to continue protecting the province. Alberta's public health workers are doing an outstanding job, and we are here to support them with whatever they need," said Premier Jason Kenney.

Travel and tips

While the province was not recommending any travel outside of the country, the federal government also announced that Canadian travellers should return home while it is still possible, and only four airports across the country will be accepting international flights starting Wednesday.

After animal studies, what are the "phases" for testing a drug?

PHASE ONE: Sometimes called first-in-human studies where 20-100 healthy volunteers will take the drug in sub-therapeutic but in gradually increasing doses to test the efficacy and safety of the drug. This phase helps determine the optimum range of doses.

PHASE TWO: A larger group of volunteers (100-300) with the specific disease is used to determine how well the drug works and continually checks the safety of the product. Therapeutic doses are used at this stage and a decision is made whether the drug will be effective at all. If it shows promise, it moves to the next stage.

PHASE THREE: A longer term study that is expanded to 300-3000 patients with the disease and will continue to check the efficacy of the drug and note any side effects that arise. If the drug passes all parameters of safety and efficacy at this stage, it is released for general use but only after all the data has been reviewed by Health Canada.

PHASE FOUR: This phase is also called the postmarketing surveillance trial. This occurs after the drug has been OK'd by Health Canada. In this phase, data will be collected about rare or long-term adverse effects over a much larger population.

These four phases can take many years and are designed to develop the safest and most effective drugs. Phase four can even result in some drugs being recalled due to serious side effects arising that may not have been seen during the trials.

Gwozdz told council the current system is very time consuming, and this would speed up the process for payments and reduce late payment penalties. Currently, the staff uploads the information, and Mayor Lorne Young, who says he is "in favour of modernizing," noted that the staff time saved could be used for other duties. The system comes with a significant cost for setup from both Servus and the municipal software company totaling $10,290.92, plus monthly costs of just under $200, which Deputy Mayor Terri Hampson called "a pretty big price tag." Council felt they would like more information, and agreed to defer a decision to the next meeting.

Parks closure

The imminent total closure of Kehiwin Provincial Recreation Area, part of a move by Alberta Parks that would see 10 recreation areas totally closed and another 20 partially closed, was seen as a blow to Elk Point and area's tourism potential. Kehiwin is also among 164 sites across the province proposed for partnerships with municipalities, groups or individuals, and Coun. Dwayne Yaremkevich said that had also been proposed for the site some years ago, when the Elk Point Elks Lodge had been approached to see if there was interest in taking it over, a move he had been in favor of, but the majority had not. Council agreed to send a letter from the Mayor's office explaining the importance of the site as the only usable boat launch on Kehewin Lake.

Rural physicians

Council received an invitation to the Rural Health Care Under Siege public meeting in Bonnyville the following evening, with Deputy Mayor Hampson and Couns. Yaremkevich and Debra McQuinn authorized to attend on the town's behalf.

Tax arrears

"One of the four properties that went to tax sale will go back to its owner when the arrears are paid by the end of March. How to dispose of the other three was debated and then deferred to the March 23 meeting for a decision.

Curlers 'cash' in at windup funspiel

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

The fun was on at Elk Point Curling Club this weekend, as 10 teams took part in the March 13 and 14 Funspiel, wrapping up the 2019-20 season in style.

Along with curling three games apiece, teams took part in Friday night 'bowling' competitions, where each team member threw one rock at six strategically placed rocks in the house, with the goal to not only knock out the target rocks but the shooters as well, earning $100 in play money for every rock removed from the rings, minus $100 for any shooters remaining, and a bonus $500 for clearing the house.

Along with accumulating points toward the win, the curling games also added to the play money, with $50 per end and $200 for the win, along with the potential to win bonuses and the threat of $50 penalties for hogged rocks, with that amount going into a 'hog pot' won by one hogger on Saturday evening.

Other types of games, from cards to ping pong also added to 'cash' to each stash after the steak supper, for bidding on the prizes at the auction that wound up the evening.

This year's Funspiel winners were the Boorse rink, made up of Jason and Crystal Boorse, Doug Lindquist and Amy Knifton, with a total of 1,150 points to get their names added to the Doug and Doreen Berg Memorial Trophy. They edged out the Ballas rink, Tyson and Andrea Ballas, Tim Smereka and Ryan Hahn, who collected 1,050 points during the spiel.

The first half of the Ballas team were also the A Pool winners for the 2019-20 season, Tyson and Andrea Ballas curling with Tyson and Twyla Stafford in league play this year, while the Elks team, made up of skip Mike Chubey, third Don Pilisko, second Lorn Berg and lead Geoff Hoyle, were the B pool season winners.

Wellbeing most important now

It is extremely disappointing to see one event after another wiped off our calendars as if they had never been there, especially for the Elk Point Bantam Avalanche, whose stellar season ended in a win that jumped them up a tier at Provincials.

Unfortunately, their wellbeing and that of their relatives, friends and community overtakes the search for a provincial championship, as it does over long-planned vacations and major sporting competitions.

It's imperative to reduce risk and halt this virus in its tracks, so we call all get back to real life. Stay safe.

WAY BACK WHEN...

Thermal recovery, Amoco sale, female hockey provincials

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF MARCH 17 IN...

1985

Murphy Oil Company Limited announced plans for a $35 million thermal recovery project from heavy oil deposits in the Lindbergh area, with the four-phase project to have an overall life of 30 years. The Energy Resources Conservation Board granted approval to Amoco Canada to proceed with phase one of a three-phase project, the first phase involving testing thermal recovery with a 13-well cyclic steam injection and steamflood project, drilling 160 additional wells and construction of a bitumen cleaning plant.

1990

A high incidence of shoplifting involving Listerine and Lysol spray prompted the Elk Point Co-op to remove the products from their shelves and discontinue their sale. Elk Point and District Agricultural Society's plans for a fairgrounds, pavilion and race-track were back on the table, with town council passing a bylaw to rezone a 30-acre parcel across Highway 41 and slightly to the south of the parcel the society had originally wanted to develop.

1995

Amoco Canada announced that they had sold their interests in the Elk Point and Lindbergh area to ELAN Energy of Calgary for $126 million. Lakeland Regional Health Authority released their final plans for healthcare delivery in northeast Alberta, after significant changes were made to original and second drafts, with Elk Point to have 24-hour emergency service, 10 acute care beds, lab and x-ray services, 25 continuing care beds, respite and palliative care.

2000

Olympic women's hockey gold medalist Fiona Smith was a special guest when the Elk Point Storm hosted the Midget Female Provincials tournament, where a Flat Lake youngster, Brett Kissel, sang O Canada. Frog Lake First Nations Chief Thomas Abraham and federal government representative Leo Saskamoose officially opened Morning Sky Health and Wellness Centre.

2005

Elk Point Elementary School held its annual Science Fair, with 11 students from Grades 3 to 6 who created six informative projects winning awards of excellence. The County of St. Paul approved the spending of a $20,000 centennial grant to build gazebos in Elk Point and Ashmont Iron Horse Trail staging areas.

2010

Town council had a full house on hand for their meeting, with two interest groups and a property owner protesting a bylaw that would close a portion of 53 Ave east of Highway 41. Proposed changes in County of St. Paul electoral boundaries brought only a handful of residents to an open house, with no concerns expressed over the changes.

2015

Seven hours after polls closed, the announcement of Darrell Younghans as the PC candidate for Lac La Biche-St. Paul-Two Hills was welcomed with loud cheers and whistles from his friends and supporters. One of the year's biggest Disney hits combined with local talent for a crowd-pleasing Elk Point Skating Club performance of "Frozen," featuring an all-star cast of 57 youngsters, ranging from beginners to teens.

Tournament, banquet fall prey to Covid-19

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Elk Point Minor Hockey has sent word that the Minor Hockey Banquet planned for March 31 has been cancelled, due to the spread of the Covid-19 virus.

Elk Point Oil Kings have also cancelled their planned Pond Hockey Tournament on March 21, for the same reason.

Mini Jamboree

This week it was the Covid-19, last week it was the weather that plagued end-of-season minor hockey activities. Elk Point Novice Avalanche had planned to host a Mini Jamboree on Saturday, March 7, but plans for that event fell through, with only a team from Lloydminster on hand to play against the Novice Avalanche.

And what a game it was, the Avalanche with 70 shots on goal and Lloydminster with 60, according to information submitted by the parents. Six goals for William 'Billy Bob' Ballas, four for 'Jesse James' Penner three for Jaxon 'Magic' Marcoux, and one for Ryder 'Rhino' Malo made it past the Lloydminster goalie off assists from 'Billy Bob', 'Jesse James', 'Magic', Hudson 'Hammer' Krankowsky and Avree 'the Aggressor' Lesyk in this one, which ended in a 17-13 win for the visiting team.

MICRO NOVICE AVALANCHE enjoyed one final tournament in Cold Lake on the March 7 weekend, before the 2019-20 hockey season came to an abrupt end.

Buy or Sell Property

The maximum amount you can withdraw from your RRSP under the HBP increased from $25,000 to $35,000 for withdrawals made after March 19, 2019. You have up to 15 years to repay the total amount.

If you are eligible for the disability tax credit, you do not have to be a first-time home buyer to use the Home Buyers' Plan. This also applies to those that are helping a relative who is eligible for the credit to buy or build a home. The purchase or construction must be done to allow a person with a disability to live in a home that is more accessible or better suit their needs.

If you sold your principal residence in 2019, you need to:

Report the sale - You have to report the sale of your principal residence on your tax return in the year you sold the property.

When you sell your home or when you are considered to have sold it, and it was your principal residence, usually you do not have to pay tax on any gain from the sale because of the principal residence exemption.

For 2016 and subsequent years, the Canada Revenue Agency will only allow the principal residence exemption if you report the disposition and designation of your principal residence on your income tax return. If you didn't report the sale and designation of your principal residence in these years, you will need to change your return and file a late designation for the related year as soon as possible.

If you sold a property that you rented out or flipped, you need to:

Report the gain or profit you made - Your intention matters when you buy a property. If you bought a property mainly to sell it or rent it out or if it was a secondary property and not your principal residence, you may owe tax on any resulting gain or profit.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT - On behalf of the Elk Point Lions Club, Ron Smith, presented the Jack and Jill Playschool instructor Tammy Klatt and her afternoon students with a $250 donation. Jack & Jill Playschool is greatly appreciative to the community support it receives.

Lodges and Extendicare closes doors to visitors

CLARE GAUVREAU
Review Writer

Local seniors' lodges and St. Paul Extendicare have closed their facilities to non-essential visitors to those facilities.

"It changes all the time. Last week we were screening, this week we are restricting," Extendicare administrator Pat Chychul said Monday morning, adding the only visitors permitted into the facility will be in the case of a terminally ill patient.

Chychul said it's hard to keep up with the changing directives as the COVID-19 pandemic evolves in the province.

"We are having a staff meeting this afternoon, making sure we cover two shifts and keep them apprised of what is going on. One of the concerns is the availability of staff, of course, and people who are working at the hospital and working here. Those are the things that we are addressing right now."

The MD of St Paul Foundation, which oversees the operation of two seniors' lodges - Sunnyside Manor in St. Paul and Elk Point Heritage Lodge - falls under the Supportive Living Accommodation Licensing Act. In regard to responding to the COVID-19 pandemic, the Foundation takes direction from Alberta Health Services and will follow those protocols.

On Monday, CAO Brigitte Sakaluk said no visitors, other than essential services, will be allowed at Sunnyside Manor and Elk Point's Heritage Lodge because residents are at extreme risk from any potential COVID-19 exposure.

"Family members are being contacted, we have posted signs on our doors," Sakaluk said. "It is going to essential visitors only."

As of Monday, lodge residents were still able to come and go from the facility as they choose but Sakaluk said that could change very quickly also depending on directives from the province.

"Right now, our residents still can go out."

On Friday, Sakaluk and Sunnyside Lodge Manor Kerry Trotter provided the following information to the St. Paul Journal in regard to what the MD of St Paul Foundation is doing in the wake of COVID-19.

"Ensuring staff and residents are familiar with COVID-19 symptoms.

Communicating information about COVID-19 symptoms, and steps required to self assess and respond in the event of symptoms, to residents, volunteers, contractors, families, friends, visitors, etc.

Posting signs emphasising that good hygiene practices remain the best defence against respiratory infections; i.e. frequent handwashing, cover coughs and sneezes etc.

Cleaning high touch surfaces frequently.

Both staff and residents are to report illness immediately. Our facilities will follow the process of outbreak identification and notification and maintain an increased vigilance for staff and residents with fever and cough.

As the MD of St Paul Foundation receives updates and the situation changes, we will adjust our protocols accordingly. Our staff and resident's safety and well being is our first priority."
